Nashville, TN – May 21, 2010 – BillingTree, Inc, one of the nation’s leading on-demand payment processors, today announced plans to divert tradeshow charitable donations during CS Week, normally gifted to Rock Block Charities, to help the city of Nashville. The company will utilize their real-time web payment portal, allowing event attendees to make donations to support Nashville’s recovery from the BillingTree booth 620.

“BillingTree made a commitment earlier this year to raise funds for our Rock Block Charities during all tradeshows,” said Scott McCollum, BillingTree’s president. “In light of the recent devastation and flooding, we are channelling all donations made during CS Week to help our host city Nashville to recover”.

In addition, contributions made from the online Rock Block donation page during CS Week May 25–28, 2010 will be donated to Nashville’s cause. Funds raised will be presented to the Nashville Red Cross. Online donations can be made at www.mybillingtree.com/rockblock
